DIVORCE SCORED AS WORLD PERIL

BISHOP MORELAND CALLS IT A BLOW AT HUMANITY

"PRIZE WEDDINGS" A MOCK TO MARRIAGE

Sacramento Prelate in San Francisco Address Criticized Public and Spectacular Ceremonies as Travesty on Holy Sacrament.

San Francisco.—Bishop William Hall Moreland of Sacramento, in an address at Vesper hour in Grace cathedral, Sunday afternoon, fired a broadside at divorce courts in delivering a sermon on "The Mystery of Christian Religion."

He said: "Marriage is not merely a contract. That is only the starting point. When the union is consummated a new unchangeable condition is created as indissoluble as parenthood. It is as impossible to wipe out such a marriage and make a new start as to separate the waters of two streams after they have flowed together."

"The chief purpose of marriage is not pleasure, but a family. Whenever across the ages men and women have looked upon it as a bond that can be broken at will they have shrunk from the sacrifice of begetting children and endangered the future of the race."

The bishop criticized public and spectacular marriages, branding them a travesty of a holy sacrament, saying:

"Everything connected with marriage should be treated with reverence. Weddings for prizes and fairs, to advertise shows, mock marriages and such, are abhorrent, making a travesty of a holy sacrament."

"The average movie presents a degrading view of marriage, treating it in a frivolous spirit, with selfishness its chief purpose, glorifying divorce as if nothing was superior to the erotic desires of two individuals. The stability of the American home and the future of the nation are being undermined by these influences."

"Christian marriage is not controlled by the personal feelings of individuals or defined by legislatures. Merely legal unions are to be respected, but are not in the supernatural class," he added.

JAPAN OFFERS RECOGNITION TO SOVIET RUSSIA, REPORT

Tokyo.—A new policy toward Russia on which it is believed the government would be willing to grant recognition to the soviet, has been adopted by the cabinet at an extraordinary session, the terms including a 55-year concession for oil, coal and timber on the island of Saghalien and the exploitation by a Japanese company of the oil of the island, Russia sharing in the profits, the percentage to be decided later.

The chances of an agreement, it is believed, have been very greatly improved by the new policy proposed by Baron Shidehara and accepted by the cabinet. It is known that the cabinet is very anxious to have an agreement with Russia to its credit.

Civilian Casualties Heavy

Washington.—As the fighting between Brazilian government and revolutionary forces at Sao Paulo continues, conflicting reports as to the number of persons killed or injured as a result of the battle are being received in official advices reaching the state department. A summary of the reports issued by the department says it is believed that the rumors overestimate the casualties, adding that in general it is believed that a minimum of 1,000 civilians have been killed outright, although estimates at Sao Paulo state from 1,000 to 4,000 have been killed and injured.

An Astor Weds Russ Prince

London.—Miss Alice Astor, 21-year-old daughter of the late John Jacob Astor, was married here to Prince Obolensky Hedelinsky-Meletsky, dashing Russian exile. The civil ceremony was followed by a brilliant wedding in St. Philip's Russian church. Later a third ceremony was performed. It was for the bride in the Savoy chapel, and supplemented the civil wedding in the Russian church.

Archbishop Home, Oct. 5

San Francisco.—Archbishop Edward J. Hanna will return to San Francisco, October 5, in time to attend the celebration of the Holy Name Society on that date. He is expected to arrive in New York from Europe, August 20. Members of Catholic orders in the San Francisco diocese plan a great welcome for him on his return.

BAR FRUIT CROPS TO ALIEN BUYERS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S RULING HITS JAPANESE

SALE OF FRUIT HELD SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Unpicked Crops Cannot Be Bought By Ineligible Citizens Without Law Violation.—Denies Aliens Interest Through Purchase.

Sacramento.—The sale of unpicked fruits or berries by a California orchardist or rancher to a person ineligible to citizenship is a direct violation of the alien land law, according to a ruling made by Attorney-General U. S. Webb at the request of District Attorney George W. Hoyle of Sonoma county. Webb held that unharvested fruits and berries are regarded as "real property" under the provisions of the act, and therefore their sale to ineligible aliens is prohibited.

The opinion is in line with a ruling made last January by Webb, in which he held that no owner can place ineligible aliens in control of land, lease or sell it to them.

District Attorney Hoyle's question to Webb read as follows: "Is it a violation of the alien land law for a rancher, either as owner or lessee, to sell, and for a Japanese or Chinese to buy, apples or other fruit, upon the trees for drying or other purposes; the Chinese or Japanese to pick and harvest the fruit himself or at his own expense?"

Webb gave his opinion in the following reply:

"To your second question it occurs to me a negative answer must be returned. I am aware that the productions of the soil before severance, produced through man's industry, for certain limited purposes, have for a long period been regarded by courts and legislative bodies as possessing at least some of the characteristics of personality, but these unsevered products are not so treated by the alien land law of this state. That act uses the term 'real property' without attempting a definition, and therefore the term is used in its broadest significance. As so understood, it includes land and the unsevered growth thereon. This will include not only the fruit trees but their fruit unharvested and matured thereon. A sale of such fruit shall be a sale of real property and the prohibition of a sale of the whole is a prohibition of the sale of all of its constituent parts."

U. S. SENDS MILITANT NOTE TO PERSIA; BREAK THREATENS

Washington.—In a note, which, while diplomatic, should leave no doubt as to this country's intention, has been sent by the state department, informing the Persian government that the United States did not intend to stand by without action on the murder of Major Robert Imbrie, the American vice-consul, who was assassinated by a street mob. The note, forwarded through the American minister in Teheran, it is understood, demands immediate apprehension and punishment of those who committed the assault upon Major Imbrie and the assault upon his companion, Mellin Seymour, another American, and insists that proper punishment be accorded to those officials or public servants who were present and failed to take steps to prevent the outrage. In this category are included members of the police and certain soldiers, some of the latter of whom are understood to have participated in the attack.

The Persian government will be required to furnish guard for the American legation and American consulates in Persia if, in the opinion of the American diplomatic representatives such guards are necessary to protect the property. Those guards would necessarily be continued at the expense of the Persian government until their presence would no longer be regarded as necessary.

Harris, Dry Chief, Moved

Washington.—Transfer of A. H. Harris, divisional chief of the California, Nevada and Hawaii prohibition forces, with headquarters at Los Angeles, to the Illinois district, has been announced. James Robb of the Los Angeles district, will act as divisional chief for a time. The transfer was granted so that Harris could be near a member of his family, who is ill.

AUTO HITS CYCLIST

What narrowly escaped being a serious accident occurred Monday noon, when Ted Smith ran into the young Mazzoni boy who was riding a bicycle.

The accident occurred in front of the Farmers Union driveway, and witnesses said the youth was quite at fault as he rode his wheel off the sidewalk from between parked machines, which obscured him from the driver of the approaching car. Very fortunately the boy was not injured altho his wheel was badly demolished. The boys who ride bicycles on the Main street of Campbell are many of them exceeding careless. They use the sidewalks part of the time and then wheel out into the road at any point, whether cars are parked or not. They are not at all particular to keep to their own side of the street and turn around anywhere in the middle of the blocks.

With the number of machines on our streets both winter and summer, it behooves all parties, autoists, bicyclists and pedestrians to exercise more care or we will have some tragedy ere long, over which to mourn.

WHAT KEEPS RADICALISM GOING?

It is little wonder that America is infested with vague ideas when so many of those who profess a knowledge of sound government have so little knowledge of its real principles and the foundation upon which this country is built. There are as many misconceptions as there are misfits. Any line of thinking which starts out on a false premise will inevitably lead to a mis-conviction of things in general. True there are many occasions for reform,—better say, betterment of conditions, but nobody with genuine Americanism in his heart will want to kick down the whole house because one bed-room may need papering. Construction in government pays; destruction leads to ruin.

ADVERTISING IMPERATIVE TO SOUND BUSINESS

Newspapers and magazines have sometimes been unjustly accused of boosting advertising merely to further their own business interests. No more unjust accusation could be made, and one proof of this is the fact that newspapers and magazines themselves find it necessary to advertise.

Advertising simply means the setting forth of facts and figures regarding business, merchandise, events, or any other things pertaining to trade and commerce that becomes imperative for the public to know. If it is right and proper to inform the public by news, it is likewise right and proper to inform them by advertisements. Thus it becomes imperative to good business methods to place facts and figures, as well as arguments and persuasion before the people. It is the public, not the press, that demands advertising. The public wants it. The press is merely one of the important means of furnishing what the people want and what good business requires.

PATRIOTISM

Patriotism, like charity, should begin at home. Not that we should neglect our duty to the government or omit respect for the national unity. That all goes without saying. Rather should we enhance the spirit by localized efforts. When a man calls himself patriotic, it might be well to find out whether he really means it. See whether he is a booster for his home town, and gets behind worthy civic movements. See whether he joins in the upbuilding of his community from a moral and educational standpoint. See if he pays his debts with as much fervor as he sings the Star Spangled Banner. See if he answers the call of his community as well as he answers to the call of his country.

Two British explorers, while attempting to reach the summit of Mt. Everest, the highest peak in the world, are reported to have lost their lives when within 200 feet of the top. How many others have failed within a short distance of the goal! It matters little whether anyone ever gets to the top of Mt. Everest; but it matters much to all of us whether we reach the highest possibilities that are within us.

Now that both major parties have nominated their candidates for the high offices of the nation, the common people will have their inning of thought and deduction as to what is best for the country.

"Porter House"

In ante-Volstead days the "porter house," where porter and other malt liquors were sold, was quite a place for social gatherings. To offset competition, the proprietor of a certain New York "porter house" made his place a favorite by serving choice beef steaks, cut from behind the best ribs. This particular cut soon came to be known exclusively as "porter-house steak."

The Quint and Carson school districts have lapsed, there being no school in the former district for four years, and the territory annexed to the Glenn and Fairview districts. The Carson school house being destroyed by fire, it was not deemed advisable to erect a new building, the district now belonging to Butte City.

Found guilty of unethical and irregular practices in the handling of prohibition cases, Byron C. Parker, candidate at the last election for police judge, was disbarred from further practice before the federal court in San Francisco by Judge Partidge. The judge also declared war on bail bond brokers, stating that he would seek a way to block their practices.

Instead of the five dollar bill and the suit of clothes which California convicts in the past have received when their hour of liberty arrived, Arthur U. Bohr left Folsom prison with $214, the largest amount thus far earned by any prisoner under the wage system adopted by the last legislature for convict workers on the state highways.

Thousands of top minnows have been removed from a reservoir for their propagation in Laura park in Merced, and transferred to Bear creek, where they will feed upon the larva of the mosquito. Oil drainage is to be resorted to in the other ponds near that city, in an effort to keep down the mosquito pest in Merced.

Two soldiers were instantly killed and three others injured when current from a high-tension electric power line jumped to a galvanized iron pipe being used in construction work near the power circuit at Fort Bragg. Rushing the EXTRAS to the newsies—

Probably the only type of automotive equipment that is driven harder than a fire engine is the truck or auto that delivers the papers to the newsies and newsstands.

It's worth noting that Zerolene "stands up" in this sort of service as well as in all others. The Business Manager of the "Spokesman-Review," of Spokane, Wash., writes as follows:

"For more than ten years we have continued to use Zerolene oils and greases in our sixteen cars and trucks and three motorcycles. These carry our papers every day in the year over all sorts of roads in all kinds of weather, and may be classed as very hard service."

Why pay tribute to the superstition that "eastern" oil is "better" just because it costs more? Zerolene, made by our patented high-vacuum process from selected Western Naphthenic Base Crude, deposits less carbon, increases the gasoline mileage of your car, and lengthens its working life.

ELECT

Fred Millard

FOR

State Senator

Election August 26th.

He stands for an economical and efficient administration of the State government.

He believes the State should aid in solving the problems of the Farmer, of Labor, of Industry.

He stands for adequate support of the educational, humanitarian and social agencies of the State.

He stands for a just distribution of the tax burden.

He believes that California should be controlled by the people, and not by special interests.

Father Sage Says:

With all these bed-time stories coming over the radio, the poor kids can't get no sleep a-tall.

Who Is Jay Walker?

He is a menace to his own safety.

He crosses street intersections diagonally.

He crosses streets in the middle of the block.

He pops up in the street when he is least expected.

Sometimes the sidewalk isn't wide enough for him and he walks in the streets.

He keeps the motorist in constant suspense and causes the hair of the motorist to turn gray before its time.

He exposes himself to any passing vehicle and probably owes his life to the alertness of some motorist who could not have been held legally responsible if he had struck him.

The Jay walker may seem to bear a charmed life but some day he is sure to meet a Jay driver.

FRED MILLARD TELLS POLICY FOR HIS RACE

Fred Millard, candidate for the state senate, today gave out the following informal statement of his platform—the things for which he stands: To the voters of the 27th senatorial district:

In acceding to the request of those who have petitioned that I become a candidate for the position of state senator, at the election on August 26, I feel that the voters are entitled to an unequivocal statement of my views upon the outstanding issues of the campaign.

I believe that the state of California has a responsibility for its citizens' wellbeing—physical, intellectual, moral, industrial. With the increasing complexity of American economic and social life, this responsibility is ever increasing for the health, education, moral welfare and the prosperity of the people of the state—a responsibility which the state cannot neglect.

RELIEF FOR FARMERS

One of the greatest problems in the world today is distribution. I am both a producer and a consumer. I know that I have to pay too much for what I consume and do not get enough for what I produce. Between the original producer and the ultimate consumer there is a long tortuous, devious tollroad, and the tariff upon it is too high. I am convinced that the most practical way to solve the problem of distribution is through the medium of co-operative organizations. I deplore the present inactivity of the state market commission. I am opposed to the present move to abolish the horticultural experiment station at Mountain View and shall fight to maintain it in the interest of the fruit growers of the state.

ECONOMY

I believe that our state government and its various departments should be economically administered. I do not believe, however, it was economy, in the face of repeated warnings, to have cut in half the number of forest rangers by erosion of which the ravages from forest fires are more deadly this year than ever known before. I do not believe it was economy, in the face of actual warnings, to have denied the state department of agriculture its request for inspectors to prevent the entry of the hoof and mouth disease, an epidemic that will cost our state millions of dollars.

RAILROAD COMMISSION

When the people of the state are entitled to the reduction from war-time rates for public utility service, which would save them millions of dollars, I do not believe it was economy to withhold from the railroad commission the small amount of funds necessary for the engineers and experts to make the required investigation.

PUBLIC HEALTH

I do not believe it was wise economy to close up the branch laboratories of the state so that by lack of treatment and supplies the people are unable to get quick relief in case of rabies and other deadly diseases.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION

I do not believe in the economy which by reducing the funds of the industrial accident commission on July 1, 1923, at once shot upwards the death rate from industrial deaths after that date. I do not believe in thus gambling with the lives and limbs of the wage earners of California. I do not believe it was economy for the state to have abandoned its established policy of re-educating and rehabilitating its citizens injured in industry so that they could earn a living for themselves in useful occupations instead of eking out a miserable existence by peddling shoe strings. I believe that the state will soon begin to pay an awful price for abandoning the supervision of uninsured and uninspected elevators and high pressure boilers.

CHILD LABOR

The children of our state are its most priceless asset. They are the citizens of tomorrow. The congress of the United States has proposed an amendment to the constitution of the United States which will give congress the power to prevent the exploitation of children in industries. I am opposed to the exploitation of children in shop or factory, and therefore, if elected, will vote for this amendment.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

One of the most serious menaces to our American institutions is the growing disregard for law, whether prohibition, motor vehicle, or otherwise. I pledge myself emphatically for enforcement of law. I believe in rigid enforcement of the Wright act and shall oppose any attempt to weaken it.

INDUSTRIAL FARM FOR WOMEN

Probably the one measure that the women of California are today more interested in than any other is the restoration of the farm for delinquent women. I regret that this humane, practical work of redemption, which the state had adopted as an established

Modern Banking and How it Has Changed
From Pre-War Days

IV

THIS question will naturally arise in the minds of those who have read this series of articles: "How can the methods of pushing and advancing business so successfully tried by the Humboldt Bank be applied to the smaller banks in rural communities, or in smaller towns than San Francisco?"

Patrons of small banks want service just as much as patrons of larger banks, and though it obviously would not pay a country bank to employ special persons to give all their time to answering questions and detailing information, or to conducting a troop of Boy Scouts, as the Humboldt does, yet there are many things that the smaller bank can do and do with profit to itself.

The teaching—for that is what it amounts to—of the younger generation to bank their money, instead of depositing it at home in old teapots, or venerable stockings, is obviously one of the lines along which the country banker can work. It is estimated by the treasury authorities that the farmers of the country have $125,000,000 hidden away in some such antiquated receptacles. If you teach the boy to bank his earnings, you may be sure the man (when the boy becomes a man) will follow the example.

In these days of telephones and rural deliveries why should not the farmer and his wife keep accounts and pay all their bills in checks by mail, instead of sending money orders or cash? A very large part of the money order business of the country should be done by the banks, and is not because of lack of confidence in them, or ignorance of how many facilities an account affords. The country banker should work by articles in his local papers, by circulars, by personal conversation, to remove those prejudices and clear up that ignorance.

In many communities the banks have managed pig clubs or corn contests for the youth of the neighborhoods. Those are splendid ideas; extend them. The plan of decorating the windows will attract relatively more attention in a small town than in a city. Yet many banks make no effort in that direction. The suggestion to start an account for baby, applies as well in the country as in the city. Watch for the births and send a letter of congratulation to the parents and suggest starting an account.

Then, the banks can send out by radio, news of the crops, prices, etc., and local information of big interest to the farmers. They can give information about trains and routes and buying tickets. They can show their customers how to wire ahead for rooms if the latter are going to some other town or city; they can advise them in a hundred different ways which will develop if once the public understands that the bank is a source of information on any subject and is glad to impart it. While it will not be necessary to have a permanent information desk, taking up all of one person's time there can be someone in the bank designated as "information," to whom all inquiries can be referred.

There is in every community, small or large, money that the bank does not get that it should have on deposit. Go after that just as the city banks do and it will prove a profitable method of extending your business.

Forests Once Covered
Whole United States

Before the coming of the white man forest fires were then as now caused by man or by lightning, says the research bureau of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association. The Indians practiced the burning of forests, prairies and swamps in order to encourage the growth of berries, to drive game and also as war measures. The early chronicles of the settlement of the United States contain many instances of the Indians setting destructive fires.

There is some reason to believe that it was recurring forest fires that created the great prairie regions of the middle states, part of the barren lands of Canada and the present extensive "parks" in the Appalachian and Rocky mountain regions. There is geological evidence that the entire United States below certain mountain summits was at one time or other forest land.

Within the last fifty years forest fires have destroyed the forest character of more than 80,000,000 acres of land in the United States. On the whole, forest fires have probably destroyed more timber in that period than has been utilized.

policy, has been discontinued. I believe this work belongs to the state as much as to the church, and that California owes it to its womanhood to restore this farm and I shall devote my best efforts for its restoration.

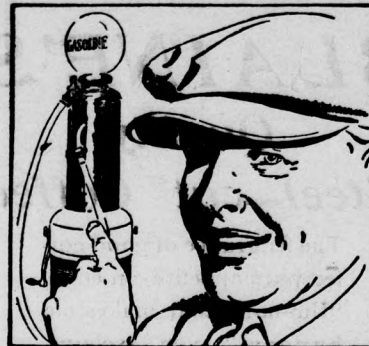

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

California is justly proud of her public school system. I believe in adequate support for the established educational institutions of the state. I am opposed to crippling any of our schools. I favor adequate support for our own public schools of California.

AGAINST SPOILS SYSTEM

California is justly proud of her public school system. I believe in adequate support for the established educational institutions of the state. I am opposed to crippling any of our schools. I favor adequate support for our own public schools of California.

In conclusion, no one realizes more than I that ours is the glorious state—growing, expanding, pulsating with its eyes toward the future. I believe that the state government should develop the resources, promote the prosperity, and advance the welfare of the state. In a word, the state government, accepting the responsibility that is placed upon it, should keep pace with the private industry and progress.

To the VOTERS OF THE 27TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the position of State Senator from the 27th District of the State of California.

Having dedicated my life to public service I am desirous of functioning as efficiently as possible, and after nine years of full time service as a volunteer worker particularly along legislative lines I now ask your support for an official position that I may serve you more effectively.
